You've been untied on a desperate night.
Parting with truths that you've held too tightly
Railing in time with a locotrain. Your carnal desire scents the air.
The pounding of nerves as pallor grows pale. Wraps you in fabric - a costume unveiled. Belted and chained as a petticoat feast. Tying your legs to the task.

VERSE ETC LOOP
Cm Eb Gm F
(important: the delay of the 2nd last by 2 beats)

CHORUS

We welcome you in, now the banquet begins - feasting on Forbidden Fruit.
It's a party for all, where you take of your clothes and your mind turns to the darkest.
We've been waiting for your smooth young body - shining up our shining teeth.

Cm Eb Gm F
Cm Eb D D7

short ending:

Shadowy looks from these beckoning walls. Phenomenal sounds from these carnival dogs. Thundering heat in delectable waves. Suckerfish ripe from withdrawal.
The hearts of the loveless resigned and retired, a final release as the crimes are rewired. Thousands of chittering, buzzing new lives, resorting to merciless toil.

CHORUS

The hearts of the loveless resort to new tricks. With clever resolve that melts hot candlesticks. Fresh butchers of dreams and respectfully dressed, after all of the world has been felled. Immaculate nails lined in thick metal rows, dungeons refreshed with a rose-petal glow. Speaking with ghosts who've been long underground - examples to all who may dwell.
